What makes us unique to other Training Providers?

The Tutors at Holistic Therapies Training pride themselves in offering a unique and personalised training experience to each individual students. We recognise that everyone has their own preferred methods of learning and aim to tailor our courses to meet those individual needs. We are dedicated to each individual students and will provide any additional training that the student needs in order that they finish their course confident in their knowledge to go away and work on the public. All of our tutors are self-employed therapists also, and can pass on their wealth of knowledge in the setting up and running of a business in the therapy industry, giving the students a full range of information to assist them in their line of work.

Intensive training days (Fast track training)

Why can a course be taught in such a small space of time?

All our courses are taught in small groups (or sometimes even on a one to one basis.) For the student this allows individual attention with the tutor. The student is also required to study the theory at home, enabling the tutors to concentrate the maximum amount of time on the practical training. Some training providers run classes with up to 20 students at one time. They learn the same technique but as the classes are larger it takes longer to teach, thus making it more expensive and more training days are required. Some also include theory and practical into the same day, reducing the time spent on practical. Here at Holistic Therapies Training all your course material is emailed to the student prior to the day so they can study the theory behind the subject, giving them more understanding & knowledge gained, before they come for the practical training. Case studies are also required to be submitted following the practical training day(s), which allows the student time to digest and practice what they have learnt on the practical training, and thus giving them the opportunity to 'fine tune' and perfect their skills before working on 'real' clients.

TRAINING OPTIONS

WEIGHT LOSS THERAPY

Description

This course will teach you techniques to assist your clients with their core issues that are preventing them from losing weight in the past. Cognitive Behavioural Therapy assesses the way that your client thinks, behaves, perceives, acts and reacts. It then work to unlock and release the potential within the client, to bring about 'major positive improvements' and changes by focusing upon issues and offering more balanced and focused ways of looking at, addressing and handling such matters, to assist in weight loss.

- * Carry out your Case studies and submit them for marking. The number of case studies varies per course, and you will be given a full case study pack and all the details with your training material.
- * Once you have successfully completed the practical training, question paper and case studies you will then be qualified and will be sent your accredited certificate. You will be able to obtain insurance and work professionally using your new skills.

These are the steps you will need to achieve before successful completion of the course:

- Complete your PORTFOLIO / INDUCTION session, so we can instruct you how to put together your portfolio & answer any questions you may have, this can be carried out over the telephone or in person.
- Build a portfolio - This will contain evidence of your knowledge in the subject and you will have tasks to complete to demonstrate your knowledge. You will be given an assessment booklet from the VTCT which you will use to build your portfolio. Your portfolio will need to include, your knowledge question paper, case studies, supporting documents, copies of previous relevant qualifications, your VTCT assessment booklet, the results of your written exam paper & a signed declaration that your work is your own.
 - Attend the required practical sessions for the chosen course
 - Complete your knowledge question paper to provide evidence to put into your portfolio.
- Carry out your case studies - The required number of case studies are outlined in your assessment booklet and you will need to cover a range of criteria in order to complete the required number of case studies.
